HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Saturday night Mr. Moyse visited Santa Ana high to act as judge in a debate held between Santa Ana High and Occidental Preparatory school. Santa Ana was victorious.

The basket ball team played its first league game Saturday afternoon with Harvard Military Academy on the Harvard Court. Glendale won 44 to 21.

The twelfth year civics class accompanied by Mr. Howe spent Tuesday morning visiting the criminal courts in Los Angeles to become familiar with formal customs in use. The information is to be used in the trial which the grand jury of the class will soon hold.

Last Friday evening the Sophomores gave their class party for themselves and friends in the I. O. O. F. hall. The hall was artistically decorated with pepper boughs and the class colors, orange and black. An immense '13 formed the chief decorative feature.

THE WATER QUESTION

Unwarranted Assertion of a Los Angeles Paper The Facts

The efforts being made by the "Consolidation Commission" of Los Angeles to impress outlying adjoining districts with the idea that their sole salvation from the danger of drying up lies in swallowing Owens river water in hydropathic doses, are becoming so reckless that they will probably defeat their purpose. As we have pointed out before the commission and the element which it represents is endeavoring to create the impression that no outside community can secure any of this water unless such community consents to absorption by Los Angeles. As yet there has been no law quoted nor reason presented to indicate that Los Angeles cannot lease the water for use from year to year to any section near by that desires it. And as there will be (if the enterprise proves successful) a very large surplus of water for some two or three years or more after the canal is completed, Los Angeles will be in no position to dictate terms, but will be compelled by the common law of good sense and good business to dispose of the water on the best terms possible, but to dispose of it.

An article in last Monday's Express, while bearing the ear marks of authority, makes a direct reference to Glendale and Tropico which is not only grossly misleading, but is absoluiely untrue; it is as follows:

"MAY IGNORE PLACES.

"Unless terms can be made which will be of the greatest advantage to the whole community, Los Angeles may ignore these places, should they show no disposition to meet the city half way, and apply the water in less favored communities.

"The district which embraces Glendale and Tropico, is one which Los Angeles could supply easily and cheaply, and it seems likely that this district must come in, for it is without any water supply of its own. The present supply comes from Verdugo canyon, and this water is the property of the city of Los Angeles at the present time, being tributary to the Los Angeles river and could be taken if there were real need for it."

"Los Angeles could easily and cheaply supply" Glendale and Tropico, and having "no water supply" we must come in on the terms offered by Los Angeles! The terms as we learn from the same article are according to the latest proposition, that we become swallowed by the greater city and assume our pro-rata of the $23,000,000 bond issue. The writer in the Express assumes that the decision won by the city of Los Angeles against a hundred or so of the ranchers along the Los Angeles river, as a result of which an ineffectual effort was made to stop them from pumping water, applies to the whole of the San Fernando valley. There is a possibility that the principle of law upon which the decision was based, might be made to apply to other than the defendants in the suit alluded to, but as long as the law is not invoked it does not so apply, and the title of the land owners in this portion of the Rancho San Rafael to the water given them by decree of court many years ago, has never been attacked. But this is a mere possibility and even if it came to pass would only affect our rights to development or to the use of the water for irrigation, as the decision in question did not pretend to affect the rights of the defendants to use water for domestic purposes. The right which the city of Los Angeles acquired by the decision was to stop the taking of water by the means of wells from the underground streams supposed to feed the Los Angeles river, when the necessities of the city required such action. With a surplus of water supplied by the Owens river aqueduct, it becomes evident that the city will not and cannot interfere with even the pumping privileges of the river ranchers. And with such surplus it is equally evident that no court of justice would be likely to interfere with the rights of a community to use for its domestic necessities the water given it by a previous decree. Certainly Los Angeles could never make good any claim to the water owned by this community and required for its reasonable use.

The same article quoted from above expresses consideration for the rights of Pasadena, as follows:

"Apparently the greatest problem before the commission will be the city of Pasadena. In discussing the Pasadena situation today the members were agreed that Pasadena is justified in being backward about merging with Los Angeles if the consolidation would destroy its identity, or lose its control of the liquor situation or of its street system, which is now one of the finest in the country.

"To protect Pasadena in these and other respects it was suggested that some form of borough government may have to be devised which will give outside municipalities control over all affairs of local government.

"SYSTEM NOT SATISFACTORY

"Casual inquiry which has been made by members of the commission was said to have shown that in New York and other places where borough systems have been tried they have not been altogether satisfactory. In spite of this the members of the commission believe that with the mistakes of others to warn Los Angeles some satisfactory plan may be worked out.

A suggestion was made that in the case of Pasadena a fair adjustment of a troublesome problem might be found in a plan whereby the people of Pasadena should bond themselves for enough to buy out their three private water companies to obtain a distributing system, the people of Los Angeles pay the cost of an aqueduct branch from the San Fernando reservoir to Pasadena and then, upon consolidation, each municipality would assume its proportion of each debt."

It is difficult to see why the same consideration should not be accorded to the smaller municipalities and communities affected in the same manner as that city is, and having the same pride in the preservation of their identity and in the continued control of their local affairs.

Now that the question of consolidation of Glendale, Tropico, Casa Verdugo and West Glendale is a live one, we may expect that the Los Angeles papers will favor us with considerable attention and more or less partisan will be some of the articles appearing therein.

CITY TRUSTEES

Not Much Doing—Annexation Election Call Issued—Proceedings in Regard to Sixth Street

There were no spectators in the lobby when the trustees assembled, all members being present. The reading of minutes and presentation of demands followed. The special committee to investigate the question of public safety in regard to fires, made a report recommending the fitting up of lumber yards, planing mills, hay barns, etc., with special facilities in the way of hose and hydrants. The report was discussed at considerable length. Mr. Coker maintaining that the installation of proposed safety system would be very expensive to property owners, the debate spreading out over the fire system in general. The report was laid over for further consideration. The tax collector reported total collections to date amounting to $6,598.64 of which sum $1300 was collected during the past week. The "trouble man" of the light department was given a main line telephone. The street superintendent reported that a third of the expense of putting in culvert at Third and Glendale avenue is to be borne by the electric railroad company. The fire chief and building inspector were instructed to get busy and make some recommendations as to unsafe flues which are run through roofs without proper safeguards. The fire chief was instructed to get after the water companies and secure the maps of their systems which were some time ago requested to be furnished. The matter of putting in a fire hydrant at Sixth and Cedar was referred to the fire marshal and board of public works.

THE K. OF P. BAZAAR.

With the laudable desire to pay their debts and put some money in the treasury for their benevolent work, the local lodge of Knights of Pythias has been holding a bazaar three nights of this week, beginning with Monday, at [illegible] on Brand boulevard. Preparations for the affair have been in process for over a month past, and the result shows that they were justified. The hall was appropriately decorated with various colored papers, roses, chrysanthemums and greenery, and presented a scene of brilliant attractiveness in the soft radiance of the electric lights. The numerous booths were well supplied with articles for sale, from useful groceries to expensive and dainty fabrics of great variety, and presided over by attractive ladies, who let no guilty man escape. There were a large number of lottery features, the principal one being a $475 piano, chances on which were sold at one dollar per, while there were numerous others, all of which added to the interest in the affair. There were every evening a number of special entertainment features in the way of music, etc., While there was a fair attendance at all times, that of Wednesday evening broke the record, as the hall was filled with visitors. On the entertainment program for that evening were Mrs. Kinney and Miss Harrison, vocalists, but their excellent work was marred by the noise necessarily attendant on such an affair. This did not interfere, however, with a fine exhibition of work with the Indian clubs, given by Mr. W. C. Wattles. The management of the affair was in the efficient hands of Mr. J. P. Collins, ably assisted by the following named workers: Fred Deal, C. H. Eudemiller, F. H. Davis, R. P. McMillan, A. P. Joyner, J. A. Spence, H. B. Eachus, Mrs. Paul V. Tuttle, Mrs. L. W. Dodge, Mrs. Fred Deal, Mrs. J. P. Collins, Mrs. Hal Davenport, Mrs. Thomas Addison, Mrs. Lewellyn Andrews and Miss Zerr. The decorating committee consisted of Mrs. Fred Deal and Mrs. L. W. Dodge, assisted by Fred Deal. As we go to press, the drawing of the lucky number for the piano had not taken place.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

On Tuesday evening in the I. O. O. F. hall the Chamber of Commerce met at a regular meeting.

The meeting was called to order and a report heard from the committee which attended the Southern California Publicity Alliance. It was decided that the Chamber should join the Alliance and Mr. Goode was appointed regular representative.

Two weeks from that night it was decided to hold an open meeting and a public entertainment. A committee on program arrangements was appointed. After a discussion of various other business matters pertaining to the organization the meeting adjourned.

AGAIN THE "D. D." BUNCH.

Like Halley's comet, the "bunch" might have been seen as a bright streak moving along the western horizon in a general northwesterly direction last Friday evening, finally disappearing in the comfortable home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Howe on Burchett street. According to the ritual there must be something doing every minute—and there was. Early in the game "Spud" Howe became so excited that it was necessary to put him out in the "cooler." Later in the evening Mrs. Dominy fell into such a deep hole that she could be reached only by means of a megaphone, and at the same time Mrs. Truscott was soaring like one of Wright's aeroplanes.

Suddenly the end came for the enticing aroma of the coffee caused one bibulous member to forget the "spots" and it was, therefore, thought best to take up the more serious business of the meeting at this time. On motion of "Dom," seconded by Mrs. Howe, a regular Thanksgiving dinner was served. Oh, those "Howe"-made doughnuts and ye regular old-fashioned pumpkin pie, "fascinating" is the word. When the dinner was disposed of, as far as possible, the question of changing the name of the organization came in for a heated discussion. A motion was made to substitute "The Little Sunbeams" for the present name, "The D. D. Club." Motion lost. The meeting then adjourned to meet some other time at the home of a Central avenue member.

MRS. LAW'S LECTURES.

The series of meetings just held by Mrs. E. Norine Law of Detroit, Mich., on the awful conditions existing in our land and the horrors of traffic in girls or the white slave trade in this Christian nation, was a great eye opener to most of the audiences who went to hear her. We are too indifferent to these awful evils. As reported by Mrs. Law these girls are locked up as in jail and kept as slaves in our large cities. Why does she not open the doors and let them out? What an injustice to one who has given her life trying to do so.

Thousands are just that way let one woman do it all, and they sit by and take it easy. Let all help as they should and evil could be abolished. The government is not made by woman, else women and girls and children would not be the sufferers they are today.

This awful condition exists that men buy and sell girls and walk the streets garbed in diamonds and fine clothes and soft hands, for no work has to be done by them, for girls earn their living. Would women make such laws and allow torture to prevail among the men by their hands? This is just to start thought along this line.

Yours for temperance,
MRS. HATTIE E. GAYLORD,
President W. C. T. U.

ONE OF THE "SMALL THINGS."

A prominent dairyman in the valley informs us that his loss in bottles alone during the month amounts to the sum of fifty dollars or more, his patrons failing to return them to that extent. The occasional filching of a milk bottle is probably by many people considered one of those excusable things, although, such is the inconsistency of human nature, the same people would not filch the smallest coin of the realm (of much less value) from their neighbor. It probably does not occur to the dairyman's customers that somebody else has to pay for the purloined bottle—that this is one of those little things which the whole community has to pay for in the long run, in higher prices, for the owner of the bottles must in some way make up at least a portion of his loss. We commend this instance to the preacher when next he chooses for his text, "The Little Foxes."

AUTUMNAL DINNER.

Thanksgiving day the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McIntyre on Cedar street was the scene of a large family reunion.

The house was entirely decorated in autumn effects. In the dining room plates were laid on the long table for fifteen guests. Original place cards of grape leaves in brilliant autumn colors marked the places. A large fruit piece graced the center of the table and autumn leaves scattered over the white cloth gave an artistic touch.

The walls were draped with festoons of autumn leaves and the American and Canadian flags to bring to mind the fact that our neighbor, Canada, holds a Thanksgiving day as well as we of the United States.

Golden Wedding

During the past week the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Emery, of Topeka, Kan., who are spending the winter with their son, Mr. E. U. Emery, was generously remembered by a number of their intimate friends and relatives who gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Emery. The evening was passed in singing old-time songs which were interrupted to write the honor couple telegrams of congratulation. Dr. Bryant, with a most appropriate speech, presented Mr. and Mrs. Emery with a box of gold pieces from the company. After the serving of refreshments Mr. and Mrs. Emery were placed in the center of the room and the guests gathered around them in a circle and sang "Auld Lang Syne" before leaving for their various homes.

The matter of the incorporation of Eagle Rock as a city of the sixth class was brought before the county board of supervisors at their regular meeting last Monday. The date for the hearing has been set for December 12.

The Glendale line of the Pacific Electric is not likely to be tied up at Edendale, as has been rashly predicted. The people of that suburb are likely to get what they want in the day of transfers and the cars of the Pacific Electric company continue merrily on their way carrying passengers between the metropolis of the Southwest and its most rapidly growing suburb.

Something like a miracle happened in Iowa not long since. At a good roads meeting in Des Moines last spring the suggestion was made that a dirt road should be built across the entire state of Iowa, three hundred and eighty miles. Public spirit was aroused, and a romantic scheme was suggested; namely, that ten thousand men should go to work at the same moment and co-operate in the building. Iowa is a level tract of country, and the difficulties were so small that in one hour's time, after the road had been planned and the line surveyed, it was finished. Such a remarkable instance of co-operation shows what might happen in moral and social reforms if ten thousand men and women would take hold of any specific problem at the same moment, in the same spirit, and with a fixed determination to succeed.—Christian Register.

San Diego's Panama-California exposition has received its first assurance of aid from foreign governments. Guatamala has officially replied to a letter from Director General D. C. Collier, addressed to President Cabrera. Through Senor Joaquin Mendez, secretary of agriculture and industries, President Cabrera assures the exposition directors that Guatamala will send an exhibit to San Diego during the year 1915, and asks for plans of the exposition grounds and also wants to know how much space Guatamala can have.

These questions are difficult to answer at the present time, because Landscape Architect John C. Olmsted is now working out the details of the landscape features of Balboa park, San Diego, where the Panama-California exposition is to be held, and until this task is completed space cannot be allotted.

PLANT TREES.

Has the spirit of public improvement which animated the members of the Tuesday Afternoon club and other organizations and citizens in Glendale, a year or so ago, evaporated into the thin air? Have we planted all the trees along our streets which we desire to have, or are we satisfied with things as they are? Time was when we talked glibly of black acacias, camphor, bottle trees and what not, even soaring occasionally toward botannical nomenclature and toying with "robesta," "gigantica," "unifolia," "ficifolia," and other Latiny terms which were really quite impressive and the use of which was entirely harmless. But no more petitions come to the city trustees for permission to plant, and no work is being done to provide shade for the coming generation on the declining years of the present one. The season for the planting of deciduous trees is almost here and there are yet miles of streets that are treeless, except for the occasional pepper tree, some of which are mere cumberers of the ground, because of their neglected early years. It is time that the tree planting question be revived, the work has only been begun.

THE ADVISORY VOTE ON SENATOR.

A great many people are under the impression that our new state law in regard to the advisory vote on United States senator is the creation of the old "machine" (S. P.) politicians who choose the vote by district method in preference to a state-wide expression of the people's choice. This idea can readily be dissipated by reading the statement of Hon. P. A. Stanton published in the Times a few days ago. Mr. Stanton shows that the law as enacted by the the legislature, was passed practically as it came from the hands of the direct primary league, with the single change of this feature, and had the unanimous support of the legislature. The law gives the legislators the option of supporting for senator the candidate endorsed by their district, or the candidate receiving the endorsement of a majority of the districts. If the law is regarded as binding by the legislators at all, the majority of them must support Mr. A. G. Spalding, and the sophistical arguments made by some of the Lincoln-Rooseevit papers in the effort to induce legislators to support Mr. Works are not creditable to those making them. It has happened more than once in the history of the United States that the president-elect has not received a majority of the popular or nation-wide vote, but never has there been a presidential elector who for that reason failed to vote as his state directed and the same principle applies in the present case.

SOME TARIFF FACTS.

President Taft again asserts "We revised the tariff on necessities down and this is no longer a question by any one who has either the desire or intelligence to understand the facts." And it is scarcely necessary to add that his assertion is substantiated by statistics. One result is an increase in dutiable imports of more than $100,000,000; whether this is exactly what the people desire who insist on a much greater decrease in duties, is not quite clear. There is a decrease in the duty on sugar from 69.36 in 1909 to 56.23 in 1910. On this one item it would doubtless be to the advantage of the consumer were the increase much greater. Wool and its manufactures is decreased from 63.118 to 59.23. There will be a difference of opinion as to whether this is an advantage to consumers or not, the fact depending upon whether the United States can produce a sufficient quantity of the raw material and convert it into the manufactured product in quantities sufficient to supply the demand; probably as to the raw material this is impossible, therefore a reduction in duty is desirable. Cotton manufactures is increased from 53.41 to 56.05. The defense for this is the assumption that cotton products can be turned out by the home factories in quantities sufficient for home consumption. Iron and steel and their manufactured products is decreased from 38.00 to 32.06, certainly a very important reduction. Spirits, wines, etc., are increased from 71.60 to 73.54, justified presumably by the fact that they are luxuries. Tobacco and its manufactures, however, is decreased from 85.13 to 79.14, by the experts evidently classed among necessities. Fruits and nuts are increased from 36.55 to 39.76 and here is shown the fine Italian hand of our California Chamber of Commerce statesmen. It was not for nothing that our senators voted on all the rest of the schedules just as Mr. Aldrich desired. Now as far as practical commercial results are concerned, this should be perfectly satisfactory to their constituents, and, generally speakink, it doubtless is so. But the question is this, about what did the California insurgents insurge? Not on any national issue surely, least of all the tariff.

Value of Planting Trees.

Orson, a town in Sweden, is probably the only municipality in the world which has ordinary city expenses, but which imposes no taxes. Moreover, the local railway is free to every citizen, and there is no charge for telephone service, schools, libraries and the like. This happy state of affairs is due to the wisdom of a former generation of citizens and rulers of Orson, who planted trees on all available ground. During the last thirty years the town authorities have sold no less than $5,000,000 worth of young trees and timber, and judicious replantings have provided for a similar income in the future.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

(Special to the NEWS)

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—The wonderful development of the petroleum industry of California is shown by advance sheets of the mineral bulletin of the state mining bureau of California for 1910.

According to figures compiled by State Mineralogist Lewis E. Aubury, the 1910 production of petroleum in California will exceed in value the production of gold by $15,500,000.

Prior to 1887 the figures relating to values are incomplete, but in 1876 the number of barrels produced was 175,000. The total value of the petroleum produced in the period 1887-1909, inclusive, was $136,693,228. The barrels produced in 1909 were 58,191,723. The estimated production of 1910 is about 75,000,000 barrels.

XV.—The Mission of the Country Church.

By C. V. GREGORY.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

THE country church has a place to fill in the rural community that can be filled by nothing else. In too many cases the church has failed to make the most of its opportunities. Its growth has not kept pace with the growth of other rural institutions.

The country church is too often a mere imitation of the city church. The church officers and the pastors do not recognize that rural needs in religion are as distinctive as rural needs in education. In the city there is room for many churches and many denominations. In the country this is not the case. One church is enough for any country community, and it is a large village that can support more than one. The curse of denominationalism has been the ruin of religious life in many a rural community. From being an exponent of peace the church too often has become a promoter of strife. A spirit of friendly rivalry has developed many times into a bitter fight between denominations. When churches fight the devil gets his due, and too often he has seized his opportunity to capture the whole community, bag and baggage.

The cases where church differences are carried to extremes are fortunately comparatively rare. The worst part of the division into denominations is found usually in the division of church support. A community that could support one thriving church divides its energies among half a dozen. The only bass singer is a Presbyterian perhaps, and the soprano is a Methodist and the rest of the choir are Baptists. As a result the singing in all the churches is a minus quantity, or nearly so. The only good Sunday school superintendent belongs to one denomination and all the good teachers belong to another. As a result all the Sunday schools lead a precarious existence.

One of the worst effects is seen in the social life of the community. The country church should be the center of rural social life. Where several weak churches have taken the place of one strong church this is impossible. A free mingling of all the people in the community on an equal basis is interfered with.

Another of the evils of denominationalism is the division of financial support. When the money that might support one strong church is divided among two or three the results are disastrous. The first effect is seen in the quality of the preachers. The salaries which the divided churches can afford to pay will attract only the poorest class of preachers. Often two or three towns are joined together and one preacher provided for all. He must spend a large share of his time traveling, and his only influence in the community is that which he exerts from the pulpit on Sunday. If instead of giving one preacher three churches in different towns he were given the three in the same town, he would have more time to give to his people.

In essentials the different churches have the same belief. Rural people want the plain, simple religion of Jesus Christ. They have no time to split hairs over fancied differences of creed. Few of them know the creed of the church to which they belong or whether it has a creed or not. The Bible is creed enough for them.

The increased financial support which the consolidated church receives means a better building, better lights, more money for the Sunday school and, above all, a better preacher. This last is the most difficult point. Ideal preachers for rural churches are difficult to secure. The theological schools do not recognize the country church as having needs that differ from those of the city church. The pastor who is sent to the country church is usually a city born and city trained man with city ideals. He has no understanding of rural life or rural problems and too often he has no desire to learn. He looks upon the country church as a stepping stone to a pulpit in the city.

"It is little wonder that a preacher with no sympathy with the problems of lives of his people cannot achieve the highest success. He gives the people theology when they want the simple faith. He tells them how to die that they may learn how to live.

Modern agriculture has awakened the rural consciences. It has renovated the rural schools, and where given a chance it is breathing the breath of life into the country churches. The idea is sacrilegious only to those who regard agriculture as an occupation only, like banking or law. Agriculture is much more than this. It is a life led by more than 40,000,000 people. The church that does not recognize that life and help the people who are living it to solve their problems cannot hope to become a power in its community.

The fundamental change must come with the education of the preacher, for he is the active force in the church. It makes little difference whether agriculture replaces some of the theology in the denominational schools or whether practical religion is given a larger place in the agricultural colleges. The successful country pastor of the future will be educated on a mixture of religion and agriculture. He will have a deep, abiding sympathy with country life and an appreciation of its problems. He will lift the church to its proper place in the community. The mission boards are sending many "industrial missionaries" to foreign lands. These are young men and women trained in the industrial colleges. They are training the heathen in the arts of agriculture and industry and are making better Christians of them than has ever been done before. If men of this type could be placed in the country churches of this nation the moral life of the land would be revolutionized.

I do not mean that agriculture need be preached from the pulpit, although that may be admissible on occasion. In the spring of 1910 Iowa faced a seed corn famine. An early freeze the fall before destroyed the vitality of a large share of the seed corn while it was still in the fields. As planting time approached it became evident that unless something unusual were done the greater share of the cornfields of the state would be planted to corn that would not produce more than a fraction of a stand. Twenty per cent of the best corn in the state, which was shown at a corn show at the agricultural college in January, was absolutely dead. Tests of ordinary seed over the state showed that not more than 25 per cent of the average seed was capable of producing strong stalks. In this crisis the extension department of the college, among other things, sent out letters to nearly all the country preachers in the state asking that they preach sermons on the importance of testing seed corn and throwing out the bad ears. A few of the preachers were insulted by the suggestion, considering that such a course would be a profanation of the church. But more than 400 preachers prepared sermons in accordance with the suggestions and delivered them. A better text could not have been desired. The analogy between seed corn and men was easily drawn, and from the idea of testing seed corn it was an easy step to the thought of how men must be tested. The most powerful sermons given in many of the country churches in Iowa that winter were those with seed corn for a theme. In addition, the preachers had the satisfaction of knowing that they had a part in adding to the material as well as to the spiritual welfare of their communities.

This case is an exception, but it illustrates the point. More often the pastor's agricultural knowledge will stand him in good stead outside the church door. It will give him an understanding of nature that will be reflected in his sermons and will reach the hearts of his people in a way that a sermon laden with the spirit of the paved streets never could do. The pastor who calls on one of the farmers in his community and talks with him intelligently regarding his work, perhaps giving him some helpful suggestions, will not need to complain that the men do not go to church. His visits to the various families in the neighborhood will be welcomed, and he will speedily gain an influence that will make him and the church he represents powerful factors for progress.

By co-operating with the teachers the preacher can do much to help along the educational work in the community. By co-operating with the grange or club he can do much to promote the social life. Indeed, he can make the church the social center of the community. The time thus spent will not be lost, for he will be repaid by the co-operation of the other leaders in the community in making the church the moral leader of the people.

CALIFORNIA PUTS MILLIONS INTO THE GOOD WATER CAUSE.

Approximately $4,100,000 will have been expended by the end of the year in this state for sewers and better water, according to statistics compiled by the state health board's engineer inspector. This outlay may be taken to represent the attempt of California citizens to dodge the annual typhoid tax. In previous years it is estimated typhoid fever has cost the people of the state at least $1,440,000 in doctor's fees, nurses' bills, and loss of time. Largely by the expenditure of large sums for better sanitation this typhoid tax has been cut down from $1,440,000 to $960,0000 in the last two years. The saving of nearly half a million of dollars has been brought about by reducing the typhoid death rate of 600, representing a probable total of 4800 cases, to 400 deaths, or a probable total of 3200 cases. The loss estimate of $300 to the case is very conservative, as there are instances where sickness from typhoid causes an outlay of $3000 or even $4000 for doctor's and nurses bills alone.

CONSTABLE'S SALE.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice's Court of Los Angeles Township, County of Los Angeles, State of California, J. W. Summerfield, Justice of the Peace, dated the 18th day of November, A. D. 1910, in a certain action wherein J. E. Fermall as Plaintiff recovered judgment against George Beccario as Defendant for the sum of $95.60 lawful money of the United States, interest, attorney's fees and accruing costs on the 18th day of November, 1910.

I have levied on the following described property, to-wit:

Lot Thirty-two (32), Block "S," Glendale Valley View Tract, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per deed recorded in book 4259, page 74, Deed Records of Los Angeles County.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 19th day of December, 1910, at 11 o'clock a. m., of that day at the Broadway entrance of Los Angeles County Court House, City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of said Defendant in and to the above described property, at Public Auction, for lawful money, to the highest and best bidder, to satisfy said execution and all costs.

Dated at Los Angeles, the 21st day of November, 1910.

BASEBALL NOTICE!

Next Sunday a return game will be played at Verdugo Park between Verdugo and the Broadway Merchants, whom Verdugo defeated last Sunday in an unusually exciting game; final score 6 to 5. The Broadway Merchants claim they were defeated through hard luck. Next Sunday will decide whether it was hard luck or otherwise. The previous game was the most exciting ever played on the Verdugo Park diamond and the one coming will necessarily be as good.

Roberts, who has held the position of first baseman, has handed in his resignation from the team because of change of residence.

THE SICK FOLKS.

Mr. C. L. Chandler of the firm of Chandler & Lawson who has recently undergone an operation for appendicitis, is reported as convalescing.

Monroe Walton, whose serious accident was reported in the NEWS last week, seems to be recovering rapidly. He has a hole in his knee cap, but it is apparently healing all right.

Dr. D. W. Hunt who has been laid up with a painful case of blood poisoning, is able to be out again.

Miss Myrtle Wood, who recently was operated upon for appendicitis, has recovered sufficiently to allow of her returning home.

REGISTRATION.

There has been quite a heavy run on the registration deputies for the past few days in preparation for the annexation election on January 3rd. Voters who have not registered since Jan. 1st of this year have only a few days left in which to get their names on the register, which for that election will close on Dec. 6th. Judge Whomes at the city hall, and Mr. Freeman on Brand boulevard are the deputies in Glendale, and can register outside voters as well. Transfers from other precincts can only be made at the county clerk's office, Los Angeles.

GLENDALE BAND.

The band has been holding regular rehearsals every Tuesday evening since their organization. Much interest is manifested in the work which is improving every week.

The membership roll holds sixteen names but there is still a place in the ranks for two more members on harmony.

A week from Wednesday the Glendale Band will hold a concert in the moving picture show building, and next Tuesday evening an open-air concert will be held both on the corners of Glendale avenue and Fourth street and on Fourth and Brand boulevard.

Our phone numbers are Sunset 501, Home 684. If you want us, call.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

There was a fair attendance at the regular meeting last Friday evening notwithstanding the rain that fell in the early evening. There was an attractive musical program and after the regular business was disposed of the consolidation question was discussed. A motion prevailed that it was the sense of the meeting that annexation to Los Angeles is at present undesirable. When adjournment was had it was to meet at Logan's hall, Tropico, on Thursday evening of this week, that meeting occurring too late to be reported in this issue.

PARENT-TEACHER FEDERATION.

On Saturday afternoon the associated Parent-Teacher Federation will meet in the auditorium of the Union High school. A number of excellent speakers will give addresses, among them Mrs. A. L. Hamilton of Pasadena, state president of the Mothers' Congress, and Mrs. Chalmers Smith of the Los Angeles association. In addition a splendid musical program will be rendered. All who are at all interested are especially invited to be present.

BUSINESS CHANGES.

E. F. Tuttle, Jr., of Brand Boulevard, has disposed of his electrical supply business to Mr. F. H. Cherry. Mr. and Mrs. Cherry are from Los Angeles and will make their home in Glendale.

Mr. E. E. Harrington has bought the interest of his partner in the firm of Harrington & Schroeder and will conduct the business under his own name.

Just Stood Pat.

Talk about being between two fires, a Camden man was aroused by his wife the other night, who said she thought a burglar was in the house and wated papa to go downstairs and chase him. Papa promptly declined.

"What's the matter?" scornfully asked wife. "Are you afraid?"

"No," replied the old man, replacing his head upon the pillow. "But while I'm downstairs chasing the burglar you'll be going through my clothes, so it's about six in one and a half dozen in the other."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Combustible Clive.

As long ago as the middle of the eighteenth century a famous Georgian actress, Miss Kitty Clive, felt the call of the nerves commonly associated with modern women. The whole greenroom, according to the author of "Garrick and His Circle," feared her tantrums.

Her character stood high, but her clean, wholesome nature and honest heart scarcely offset her temper. She was the one player Garrick feared, and he did everything he could to disperse her nerve storms or, if they broke, assuage them. It is among the legends of the English stage that he said to her:

"I have heard of tartar and brimstone, but you are the cream of one and the flower of the other!"

She Was Not to Blame.

A young social worker in Philadelphia who has written a little volume of essays on "Life's Problems," few of which she has ever faced, called upon a woman the other day who informed her that her husband had gone off on a terrible spree.

"Oh, I am so sorry," said the social worker. "He seemed to be doing so well. I can't understand it. Did he read my book, do you think?"

"Oh, no, miss," said the woman reassuringly. "You ain't got no cause to worry. It wasn't that that set him going."

The Wrong Cue.

The children of an infant school in Wales are taught very much by signs. The hand of the teacher sloped signifies "oblique;" the hand held flat, "horizontal;" the hand upright, "perpendicular." One of the Welsh bishops was preaching one day in behalf of the school, when, observing several children whispering together, the teacher held his hand upright in a warning manner, meaning thereby to impose silence, on which almost the whole school, in the midst of the sermon, shouted out, "Perpindicular!" to the amazement of the startled and bewildered bishop.

THE POINT OF THE JOKE.

It Was Difficult For the Englishman but He Finally Saw It.

A party of Englishmen were in Chicago sightseeing some years ago. They were entertained at dinner by some Chicago Englishmen who have lived in American long enough to have a keen appreciation of the American idea of a joke. During the evening all the members of the party told stories or sung songs and entertained according to their several abilities.

One of the English visitors could see nothing funny in the stories told by the Chicago Englishmen. Every time one of them would tell a good American story at which most of the party would laugh uproariously this particular Englishman would adjust his monocle to his eye and, looking wonderingly around the table, would remark, "But, I say, I don't see anything in that to laugh at, y' knaw."

One of the Chicago men finally recited an original poem. The poem told of an Englishman who had come to America and after being in this country only a short time had died and gone to another and much warmer country. Ten years passed, and one day an imp passing that way heard the Englishman laughing uproariously.

"Why, what are you laughing at?" inquired the imp.

"Oh, oh, oh, such a funny story as I heard in America. Oh, it was so funny!" laughed the victim, and he held his hands to his sides and almost doubled up with merriment.

"A story you heard! Why, you've heard no story," said the imp. "You've been dead ten years."

"Yes, yes, I know, I know," cried the man. "But I've just seen the joke."

This poem set the table in a roar. Amid all the laughing and shouting the obtuse visitor adjusted his monocle and drawled out, "But, I say, I don't see anything funny in that, y' knaw."

"No," replied the man who had read the poem, as quick as a flash. "Of course you don't. You haven't been dead ten years." And even the obtuse Englishman saw the point.

Ended the Debate.

The baldest man in congress is Representative Ollie James of Kentucky. One hot afternoon when he was engaged in a heated colloquy with Mr Payne of New York he shook his fist and wagged his head with great energy. "Will the gentleman from Kentucky allow me to interrupt him?" queried Mr. Payne politely. "For a question, of course," agreed James. "Well," retorted Payne, "shake not your gory locks at me." That ended the debate.

Her Brand.

Two Glasgow women were strong supporters of a local co-operative store. But one day as one of them was passing down the street she was surprised to see her friend coming out of a licensed grocer's shop. "I thocht

"I CAN OBLEEGE YOU."

Mrs. Broon, ye wis a member o' the co-operative company?" was her remark.

"So I am; but, dae ye ken this, there's nae shop in Glesca I get sic nice beef ham as in here," was the prompt reply.

Some days later Mrs. Broon's friend went into this shop to buy a sample of the beef ham. On entering the shop she asked the man if he would give her "a pun o' the beef ham Mrs. Broon gets here." A quiet smile stole over the shopman's face. "Oh yes," he said; "I can obleege you. Hiv you brocht a bottle wi' you?"—Glasgow Times.

Not His Bill.

Representative Gilbert M. Hitchcock, who lives at the Connecticut apartment house when he is in Washington, received a letter one morning and read it with great surprise. It was a bill for 128 parasols. Mrs. Hitchcock also read it with surprise, not to say shock. On looking more closely Mr. Hitchcock made a discovery which led him to look at his wife with an air of triumph and say:

"This is easily explained, my dear. I have not been buying parasols by the hundred. I did not buy these. This bill is made out to Frank H. Hitchcock, the postmaster general, who is a single man."

Then the congressman sent the bill to the cabinet officer with this note:

This was opened by mistake. The inclosure was read with amazement.
GILBERT M. HITCHCOCK.

But the reason the postmaster general had bought the bale of parasols was that he wanted to use them as favors at a cotillion at which he was host.—Popular Magazine.

TROPICO

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Burt W. Richardson of Eulalia street last Saturday a son.

Miss Blanche Davenport is passing this week with her grandparents in Irwindale.

Mrs. F. E. Peters and mother, Mrs Molaire, of Los Angeles, are passing some time with friends at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Murdock of Los Angeles, have just moved into a cottage at the corner of Blanche avenue and Palmer.

Miss Lucile Pittman of North Glendale went to Irwindale Wednesday and will pass the remainder of the week there.

Miss Kitty Reynolds, who has been visiting with friends in San Diego for the past several weeks, has returned to her home on Central avenue.

The Sale Lake company is repairing its tracks on Glendale avenue. New ties are being installed and other improvements are being made.

Miss Helen Cole's basket weaving class held a very enjoyable meeting at the home of Mrs. E. B. Ellias on Tropico avenue Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Edward Connolly, who several years ago resided at this place, but who now is living at Redlands, is passing a few weeks with friends here.

The stork called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mathewson in South Tropico recently and before leaving presented the occupants with a bouncing baby boy.

Harry Marple left Tropico Monday afternoon for Riverside, where he will remain for several weeks. He is laying tile on a large job for the Collins Tile company of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Cover C. Melrose, formerly of this place, but now residing at Searchlight, will arrive in Tropico on December 12th, and will pass the holidays with relatives here.

All of the large pepper trees along Glendale avenue are being trimmed this week. In fact, almost all of the fruit and shade trees in this place are undergoing a severe pruning.

Work is being rushed on the residence being erected by J. A. Logan at the corner of Central avenue and Cypress street. The structure will be a 2-story and will be modern in every respect.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week quite a number of Tropico society people attended the bazaar given by the Knights of Pythias at their hall on Brand boulevard.

One of the latest additions in the chug-chug wagon line in this place is the dandy Stanley steamer purchased reecntly by Hal Davenport. Guess Hal "ain't" burning the roads some these days, what?

Mrs. J. R. Maxwell entertained with a dinner at her home on Park avenue Wednesday noon. Among the guests present were Mrs. J. H. Webster, Mrs. F. P. Ballentyne, Mrs. F. E. Peters, Mrs. A. O. Conrad and Mrs. Hal H. Davenport

John Parker has sold his home on Palmer avenue and has purchased property on Seventh street, Glendale, where he has erected a home which he will occupy. The Parker home was sold to Mr. Cate of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Lee of Los Angeles passed some time with her daughter, Mrs. F. P. Ballentyne on Glendale avenue recently. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ballentyne were also entertained at the Ballentyne home on Glendale avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ayers started this week for a tour of the country which will last about three months. They will go from this place to New Mexico, then will go from city to city until they finally land in New York city.

Extensive remodeling work is being done by L. C. Rice at his home at the corner of Tropico avenue and Central. Some time ago the Rice residence was remodeled on the main floor, but this time attention is being centered on the second floor.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Fisher, who for the past several years have resided at 1140 Laurel street, moved this week to Los Angeles where they will remain permanently. Mr. Fisher underwent an operation for appendicitis in a Los Angeles hospital some time ago, but has now sufficiently recovered to be out.

We have it from good authority that a piece of land consisting of six acres on Moore avenue is now being subdivided into thirty lots and will soon be put on the market. The land lies just east of Glendale avenue south of Moore. Several houses upon this land are being moved so that they will face on the new street which will be cut through running parallel with Glendale avenue. The prices of the lots has not yet been ascertained.

The Tropico free library has been fortunate enough as to have been presented with a home for the coming year. The room was donated by the owners of the Tropico bank building and is located on the second floor of the bank block, corner San Fernando road and Central avenue. Both occupants and officials of the library will doubtless find that this is a great improvement over the small building which was formerly called the Tropico Free Library.

Surveying work has been in progress along Central avenue this week. The engineering work is under the supervision of Edward M. Lynch and is being hurried as fast as possible. Just as soon as the surveying work is completed it is very probable that the improvement work will be started. With this street in the course of improvement and the San Fernando road being improved from West Glendale to Burbank, it looks as though this part of the country were getting its share of the good roads. It's nothing but fair, though; we've waited long enough.

The Tropico library board held a tag day last Saturday. This was the most quiet tag day ever held by this organization. No one except those who were visited personally knew that anything of the kind was going on, not even the reporter who circulates around after news. It seems as though the fact that tag day was going to occur was held purposely from this paper. We might have boosted it along a little. It is not known how much money was taken in, but the amount is not as large as that taken in on previous occasions. The proceeds will be used to swell the fund for the erection of a library and club house.

One of the most enterprising women of this place is Mrs. Mary Ayers on Palmer avenue. No matter what time you go around the Ayers home you will see this lady busy at work. This week she has been engaged in overseeing the work of clearing her acres at the corner of Palmer and Glendale avenues. Fires were started, the old vines burned and something doing every minute. Mrs. Ayers is an enthusiastic worker for annexation. In fact, every move that has been made has been for the betterment of this community for the past twenty years has had the support of this enterprising lady. If some of our thrifty men were to go around to the Ayers ranch and see how things are managed they might learn something to their advantage.

Let Your Brains Rest

On account of the heavy holiday trade that is now on, we are forced to temporarily discontinue our enigma ads, for the reason we havn't the spare time to work them up.

We congratulate those who were fortunate enough to secure the valuable "Economy" Jars free; and for all others who submitted correct answers to any of the enigmas we have useful souvenirs and invite you to call in person for them.

Answer to last enigma:

"Quail Tomatoes, three for a quarter"
Winner, Mrs. C. P. Barnard

We were much pleased at the large number who manifested an interest in the enigmas, but believe you enjoyed it and that you feel repaid for the efforts. "The people" know who their friends are.
